Projects

Sustainability Project

Developed sustainability Mobile Application using IoT to collect data from sensors and upload to cloud and display analyzed data on application for Businesses and local authorities to have strategic adaptations to environmental changes.

En Vogue Home Ho Chi Minh

This is my own local brand beddings product that I run while I studied in RMIT. This project provided and supported financially for my academic study. I handled everything from finding location for stores to hiring suitable employees for every position needed. I gained collaboration with other companies in other industries like furniture distributors, interior design companies and service apartment.

Digitalized Data System

This is a side project within my scope of work in Pandora Fitness & Yoga where most of the customers, employees, Personal Training Contracts were on papers or managed separately using Excel. This is when I come up with a tool that help unified these data into 1 system to avoid duplication, easier management and more insight analytics for business development.
